

The Daily Mirror

THE MORNING JOURNAL WITH THE SECOND LARGEST NET SALE.

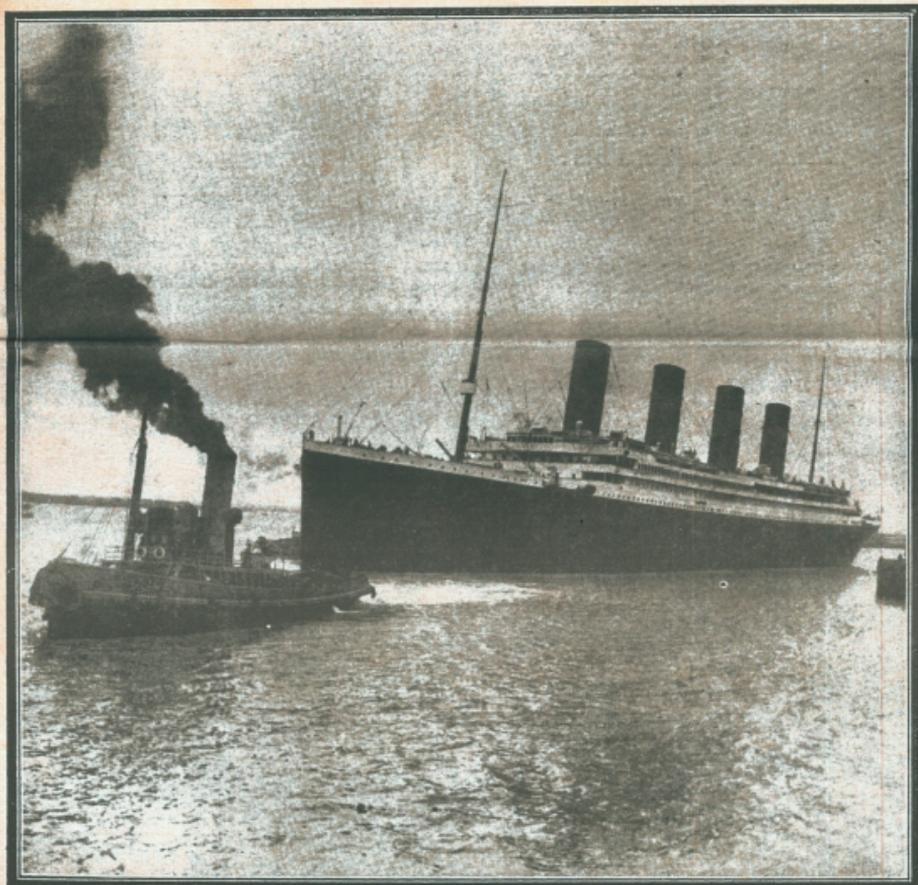

No. 2,645.

Registered at the G.P.O.
as a Newspaper.

TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1912

One Halfpenny.

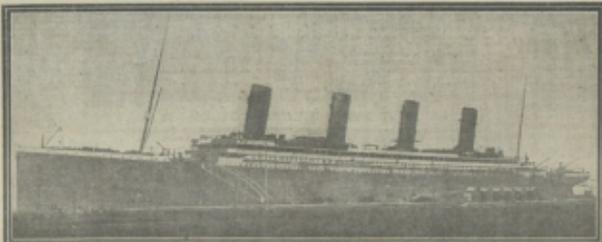

DISASTER TO THE TITANIC: WORLD'S LARGEST LINER SINKS AFTER COLLIDING WITH AN ICEBERG DURING HER MAIDEN VOYAGE.

Disaster has overtaken the great steamer Titanic, the world's largest and most luxuriously appointed vessel. The liner, which was the latest addition to the White Star fleet, left Southampton last Wednesday on her maiden voyage to New York, and was in the vicinity of the Newfoundland banks, to the south of Cape Race, when she struck an iceberg, an ever-present peril in those latitudes at this time of the year, and, after her passengers had been saved—sank. * Wireless * again demonstrated its immense value, assistance being summoned by this means. Above, the mighty vessel is seen leaving Southampton on Wednesday.—[D.M.P.]

THE MAGNIFICENCE OF THE TITANIC AND SOME OF THE WELL-KNOWN PASSENGERS ON BOARD THE ILL-FATED VESSEL.

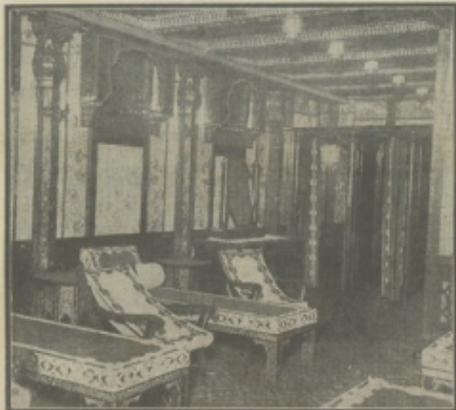

A photograph which gives an idea of the immense size of the Titanic. Her length over all is 852 ft. 8 in., and her breadth 92 ft. 6 in.

Captain Smith, the commander of the Titanic.

An evil omen. The Titanic and the New York nearly collide at Southampton at the start of the Titanic's first voyage last Wednesday.

The photograph of the Turkish bath, one of the features of the luxurious and luxurious vessel.

Colonel F. J. and Mrs. Aron.

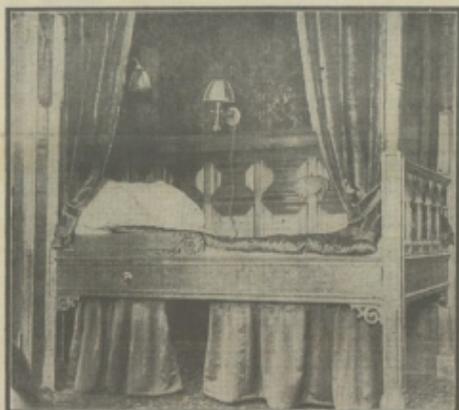

Mr. Bruce Ismay.

The Countess of Baring.

Lord Ashburton.

A bed in one of the staterooms, showing the modern magnificence of some of the Titanic's accommodations.

Mr. Isidor Straus.

Mrs. Grenville.

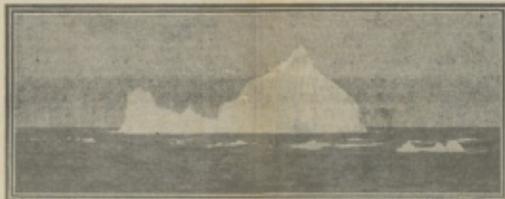

Mr. Clarence Miles.

Walter A. W. Bull.

Mr. Charles M. Hays.

Photograph showing an iceberg as seen from the deck of a mail steamer in mid-ocean.

Mr. Isid. Gragorstein.

Miss Gladys Clark.

Miss A. Frauchen.

Miss Estlin Brown.

Mr. W. T. Wood.

In the furnishing and equipment of the Titanic the last note in ocean luxury had been struck, and the passengers—some of whose photographs are reproduced above—who travelled on the vessel being lost mainly rely upon what they were encountering across the ocean off the coast of the Carbon Hotel. The photographs reproduced above give some idea of the vessel's luxurious features. (Daily Mirror, Dromey, Langdon, and Hill and Watney.)

